Sukkot

With only four days from the end of Yom Kippur to erev Sukkot, there wasn't much time to prepare for the festival. Daniel helped his parents set up their sukkah (סִכָּה), the traditional outdoor hut that Jews build for Sukkot. Daniel and his parents decorated it with colorful autumn fruits and vegetables, like apples, grapes, peppers, and squash.

Then they picked up the lulav and etrog that they had ordered from their synagogue. Daniel knew that a lulav is made from branches of three kinds of trees: palm, myrtle, and willow. The etrog looks like a large, bumpy lemon.
